

14th Knowledge Seekers Workshop – June 12th 2014

- Main topics of this Workshop

- Production of Plasma through Nano Materials
- Explanation about the Nano Layers and how they Hold the Plasma
- Plasma does not need a Containment of Physicality
- Concept of “Twinnity”
- Do not look to Numbers, but for the Interactions of the Reactors
- Understanding the Totality, taking the KS out from the Schizophrenic State (seeing just the matter state)
- Creation of Black Hole with the Reactors with Gans.
- Prayer to the Soul of the World Leaders
- Connecting with the reactors through your Soul

(:01) Mr. Keshe says that they are now very busy with the bureaucratic process in the Center. (:03) Armen assume and tells about the updates on what is going on in the projects and reactors. Armen post some pictures showing the reactors with measurements. (:22) They turned John’s reactor upside down to try different ways to influence the fields, when they did this they noticed that the fields increased. The conclusion was that the exit of John’s reactor was at the other side in comparison with the other reactors. (:26) We are trying to understand the interaction of Plasma btw each other, not focusing on the matter state of the reactors. (:30) We are trying to build up the Plasma, we are trying to create a star. (:36) We need something Physical to observe, we are not aware of the forces that are ruling the Physicality. (:38) Sometimes we make the changes to quickly, we need a lot of patience, sometimes Mr. Keshe asks why they changed something and did not waited. (:41) They made tests last weak trying to give energy to the reactors and the field detectors measured increases on the field. (:47) John talks about the ways of measurements of the fields. (1:25) <audio is lost> (1:28) <audio is back> They talk about the measurements found, they show a picture of the graphics on the screen. (1:35) Keshe comes in. You speak casually if we managed to hold the Plasma or created a Plasma which we know we have. Creating Plasma from a Nano Coated material is a unknown phenomena. If you go to the Plasma Physicist and say that you produced Plasma from Nano Materials they will laugh at you. Plasma are not created as you see even with the little balls in the Physics labs, they use rotations and energy. We are producing Plasma in a way by the use of Gases interaction or at the same time holding it through Magnetic pressure which the Nano Layers created, this is huge development in the world of Plasma Physics. They try to create a Magnetic envelope to hold the Plasma, by introducing huge amount of energy to contain the Plasma in it, in the way we have shown, you create the same containments through Magnetic fields within the layers of the Nano Materials. This Science is unknown. We fully know what we are doing, we bring this technology so smoothly to the world public that they don’t even think about the wrong ways, as they were doing, expanding billions to hold a Plasma. This is such a breakthrough that sooner or later they will come and say that this people do not know what they are doing. We are doing in a way to make reachable and do not thin of the wrong ways that we make in the past. (1:38) The new achievement now is: The

Nano Layers are gaps and holes and they create different Magnetic field layers, so, what in reality you've done, you created a spectrum of Magnetic fields strength which covers from the principal strength to matter and sub-matter below the Magnetic field strength. So whatever you create in these reactors we can withdraw all the matter but the Plasma is held, even the KS here don't understand what is fully happening. The holding of the Plasma in the core is due principally and totally to the Nano Coating which is put around the reactor, internally or with a pin inside which holds all the field strength of the Magnets, in a way contain a ball by putting it in a cage, or you can contain the ball by putting in a string in the end of it and holding it. In the reactor we have placed a pin in the middle, so we have put a string in the Plasma, but the layer itself is created through the conversion of the Gases to Plasma. In the other cases like those who are fully coated outside we have made a containment of Plasma by caging it. This kind of creation of Plasma and hold of the Plasma is a radical breakthrough in the Plasma Technology. All of our reactors have no electrical connection whatsoever they are rotated by motor externally even by belt, which means that is no conductive material connected in the reactors. Now that we have managed to create Plasma in this condition, out of fresh air, this is how Plasma is created in the Universe, now through the motion and interaction of the different strength reactors we can create motion for these Plasmas. Once the Plasma is established in the reactor and can sustain in conjunction with the other 3 reactors that we make one Plasma out of the four reactors in the environment of the lab we can just hammering the reactor of John away, because is (??) and the others are still so we can go and physically dismantled it. And by literally hammering the ceramic reactor which John has made we should be able to contain the Plasma at the same position, at the same speed of rotation of it's own. (1:42) This is not a fairytale, look at the Sun, the Sun does not have a container and have no motor. The Plasma of its environment dictates it's position and rotation, and what happen, somewhere in that structure then there is an interface in the conversion of the Mag fields to matter, so the reactor will make itself an interface Physical show, be at the Gans or be it as a solid material as the surface of the planet or stars. The interface of the system is far enough from the central Mag field that allows for liquid surface to appear. In reality the surface liquid that we see as Plasma of a H or Mag fields of He, on the surface of the Sun is because of the furtherness of the position of the central core which leads to its materials manifestation. In a very soon time we will break one of this core (of the reactors in the lab), to see and show that Plasma does not need a containment of physicality and rotation. Because of the openness of the KS of the lab the things happened in a very fast way, and now they are totally lost. In time when they grasp the whole thing they will realize what a gift has been given to them. (1:44) You see these pictures, these reactors that are running by motors, you have one reactor, if you can achieve one reactor core condition, which is a single Solar System, which is a star without any planet, there is full of life structure within the structure of this star. There is a dictating position in respect to another point of reference, which is another "Twinity", which is another twin star which dictated the position, though we can not see the Twin Star. It's an Electron and a Proton. As the world of Science opens up you will understand a next step in the world of Cosmo Physics which most of the Physicist never understood and never understand. Even the Solar Systems behave and work as atomic structures in number of electrons and protons, what this means: a star itself even having a Solar System is electron in respect to a proton so is not only being twin, but being part of a set.

When the Cosmo Physicist understands this process they will understand the fingerprint of the Space Travel in the Future. Not go only to one planet to another, but you can go to one Star and find out which set of the Stars as an electron position central core is, then you can travel within that structure of the Plasma that Super Solar System, which means that there is another star which is bigger then the rest of the stars are like the electrons rotating, it doesn't matter what is the internal dictation of the environment of the Plasma is. The learning here is too fast but I understand sometimes that has to be done this way, because there is not enough time for what is about to develop and to happen, but at the same time you got to look at the totality of the structure, what does this means, you look at one point, one reading of one rotation, that one point that you see is not the center core. (1:48) Keshe explains about the tests of Marko is about how the Plasma behave with such amount of H and so on (it seems that Mr. Keshe is talking about the Graphics showed), and talk about how the detectors of fields works. (1:52) The KS have to move away from the habit of see the physicality of the reactor. You have to look into how the fields in these reactors interact with each other. I don't look at numbers but for interactions. Data is irrelevant most part of the time, you look the data and you lose the whole picture. (1:58) Keshe explains how the reactors behave as the Elements like C and H. (2:06) You must understand the totality, not just following numbers. These picks on the graphics are irrelevant for the operation of the whole Plasma, but these picks shows dangerous positions in your structure and in your Plasma setting, because these picks are created when a massive amount of Plasma is released in the wrong direction. The direction of the pick and how it was achieved it means something is holding. You must avoid Plasma blockages (as it was seen in these picks in the graphics). (2:11) Always remember, the surface of the Sun is not the container of the Sun, but the surface of the Sun is where the matter of the MaGrav of the Sun can materialize, can reduce its strength enough to become liquid Plasma. This is what we are going with the production of new Gans state of materials. From next weak we will have twin reactors, all Gans filled only. With these reactors we are going to put a center pin Nano Material to be able to hold on to the Plasma. The next step for us is to create a balanced environment btw the four reactors. At the moment John reactors is absorbing all the fields, Mr. Keshe still do not know why. (2:14) Mr. Keshe says that he pushed the KS to an environment that they are not comfortable because they are still stuck in the Schizophrenic state, stuck in the material condition. This will take time, you see a lot of resistance because there is no understanding of the totality. In the moment here the only interesting here is when we gonna fly, they will not fly until they understand the control and balance of the fields. I can create a fly in one single reactor very easy, but when you have a Star Formation the totality counts. (2:16) What happen if you lose the Mother Reactor? It is not the end, is understanding how you have created the environment and how btw the 360 degrees you can create a new Plasma environment with other material condition that can hold on to till you replace the core or you can develop a new core, you can carry on thousand of years without the physicality of the central core. (2:19) We are not going to do a magic show just to do a lift, it has to be learned, it has to be tested. (2:22) Now we are entering the commercial phase. In close future we can show the reactors to public. (2:24) All the data and the knowledge and teachings we do and that you share are being look and analyzed by scientists, even by the top guys in NASA. (2:28) This total new Science is very simple, for the first time man has managed to change matter into a Plasma and at the same time managed to take the Plasma and hold it the way he wants. If you don't understand the process, is very simple. You put the Cu into caustic, you change to molecular attachments to atomic Nano Layering attachment, instead of being matter connected, bounding at the same level with the high temperature and pressure, by making into a Nano you made into Magnetic field connection instead of physical bounding connection, now trough Salt you made into a Gans, now what you do, you a material detachment which is a Nano Layering with the Magnetic spectrum field inside it holding the Gans which is a Magnetic field Plasma and then these Magnetic field Plasma which is in the Gans state in the new reactors, themselves create a Magnetic field to keep separate themselves, themselves create a black hole which you call the principal matter in the center of your reactor, and now you come back a full circle to the point of the Creation. So your center Residual, by Stephen Hawkins trough his stupidity said that black holes absorbs all the energies, now through this Nano Layering putting the Gans, and then these Gans will create all their own structures and MaGrav fields you create a center point in your reactor which is very much like what you call Principal Plasma Area, and in that point you share the fields with all the environments in that core. Now you don't need the physicality of the matter to hold on to the Plasma and move into the Space and the Universe. This is what the KS has never understood. Now for the first time you understand, the same way you have created MaGrav gap btw the atoms in the Nano Layer, now you create the same Magnetic field gap btw the layers of the Gans, because now it is a Plasma and then the center part btw the sphere, is just a ring inside the ring in the center carries the same field strength of the Principal Matter Magnetic field. So you created a confinement, now you try to open this Plasma in the center of your reactor. Now you understand that the travel in the Space becomes irrelevant of time and space, but you got to understand the process. (2:31) We created in a System Amino Acids that can cover any need of the man for the AA reproduction for the Neuro System or for reproduction of cells. If the results are correct then we will release this system. (2:34) Mr. Keshe talk about the meeting with the Pope in Vatican, and about the unification of Religions. (2:44) When you run the reactor on the floor you don't look at the physicality of outside, inside there is a Plasma and the Plasma within the structure affects in one side, the other two detectors. So, if those who sit in the holy places and think they become untouchable because of their physicality we have already reach your Souls! We created a Soul so we can reach it. The same we can change the behavior as I have been discussing with Armen, in respect how you change a small gas and you see the change in the other reactor, the same thing has happened with your Souls, the choice is yours. Change in what is been set up to do! (2:53) The temple of God is in the Soul of the man, not in his Heart or in his Brain. Money, Religion and attachment to physicality is one of the bad habits of physicality and Earth is one of those physical points. (2:55) These people (Priests) have to learn that they are equal to the others when they come to share their Souls, because Souls don't wear a robe or a hat. Their Souls which makes the different, and that is why a lot of them go stray, its because they misjudge the way people come to pray in their places of worship as worshipping to Christ for example, they misplaced that name and placed to themselves to the God. They know in reality that there is no connection btw them and the Christ. And with this misplaced they see themselves as one Soul and they become important. The people don't look at the priest they look at the Soul of the man who they made the contract in their Souls with. This is where the whole World leaders misplaced their names with people, they lost it. You go to church to share the Soul to Christ, this is the one you made the contact with, this is the same with the reactor in the center of the system, this connection and share of the field is with the center core and the other two, not with the other reactor running in another Galaxy. (3:07) We have to speak the language that you can understand. The Gans if used in the right way, now you understand what you can make with it, you can change the Plasma into a field, and fields are packages and you can make whatever you like with it, this is the process of the Creation. (3:09) Today no questions about the reactors. Question: What is the Spirit and what is the difference btw the Spirit and the Soul. Keshe: None. One is the Path (Spirit) and one is the entity (Soul). The Soul is very much the same as I said as what I said about Johns reactor, you break the body but inside stays the same. When we put the reactor and put the motor we dictate its rotation and everything else, that is matter. But once the Soul, the Plasma is created inside it, as I said you can smash the reactor, then when it runs itself it will only take what it needs to sustain itself in respect to its environment. The Plasma created will take and give what it need to be taken and given, but will not steal. Its only takes what is needed, this is how the Soul works, the physicality is irrelevant. That is why I say pray for your reactors, give part of your Soul to them. Question: How does man align its Soul with the physicality? Keshe: Few people have reached this position. Even some who did achieve they lost their track because they saw themselves as being the Creator. (3:15) Question: What you give to the reactors? Keshe: Just the fields. I find the balance. The physical appearance has no relationship to what is created as the Soul of the man or any creation. And it takes what it needs and it gives what it needs. (3:18) When you pray you give part of your Souls to the man you channel for the Creator, in a way you open the deposit bank for your Soul. When you are in time of trouble you go to the house of worshipping and you pray, it is like a little bank you open and put the fields there, and in time of trouble you go back to the same house in a way it is not God who answered you, is what you invested yourself in yourself that will come back to you. It is like the reactors, this is the beauty of it, and once the man understand this he will walk away from all these paths. There is no punishment, when you don't receive is punishment enough. You do not receive what is there for you to receive until you are there to receive in that level. The reactors in the lab still did not worked because the Soul of the people in the lab did not became one. When it becomes one the system will go! It is not just the Plasma in the reactor, your Soul is part of it! The change is not the physicality, the change is the Soul which you are holding back.
